

Egyptian army road map

Following the overthrow of Egypt's first freely elected leader, Mohammed Morsi, armed forces chief General Abdel Fattah al-Sisi (left) announced a plan for a new political transition with the support of a wide range of political, religious and youth leaders

- Temporary suspension of constitution. Committee including all sections of society and experts to review proposed amendments

- Head of Supreme Constitutional Court, Adli Mansour (top right), will lead country during interim period until new elections are held. Mansour will have powers to issue constitutional decrees

- Formation of government of technocrats with full powers to administer affairs during transition

- Constitutional court urged to quickly approve draft parliamentary election law ahead of new elections

- New code of ethics to guarantee freedom of media

- Formation of national reconciliation committee

- Executive measures will be taken to enable young people to be involved in institutions of state

- Egyptian people urged to stay peaceful in protests