

Today in History

January 11, 2010

▲ China reported that gender imbalance was now a major issue, and that by the end of the decade 24 million men of marrying age would be unable to find a wife

1922: A 14-year-old Canadian boy with diabetes was the first person to be successfully treated with insulin

1996: Former French president Francois Mitterrand was buried in his home town of Jarnac

2002: The discovery of 77,000 year-old cross-hatching designs in South Africa indicated that modern human behaviour arose twice as long ago as first thought

2011: Widespread protests in Tunisia launched the Arab Spring revolution