

High turnout, high fraud in Afghan election

Despite a high number of complaints of serious electoral fraud, the presidential election is being hailed a success, with over 60% turnout.

Preliminary results put opposition leader Abdullah Abdullah ahead although final results are not due until May 14

