

Whale downgrade clears way for Canada pipeline

Canada's government is aiming to reduce the level of protection for North Pacific humpback whales, a change that could clear the way for Enbridge's Northern Gateway oil sands pipeline project

Humpback whale

Proposed downgrade from "threatened" to "species of special concern" means whale would lose protection it receives under Canada's Species at Risk Act

Northern Gateway pipeline (planned route)

