

Election heads for run-off

Afghanistan's presidential election is heading for a run-off vote after no candidate secured an outright majority in the first round

Former Foreign Minister Abdullah

Abdullah claims

once count is finalised he will win outright majority, with no need for run-off

Run-off election between top two contenders by end of May