

Russia and China seal historic gas deal

China and Russia have signed a gas deal valued in excess of $400bn, securing a new source of gas for China, the world's top energy user, and a new market for Russia as Europe looks elsewhere for its energy

Pipeline construction: Issue of whether China will pay lump sum up front in order to fund infrastructure costs remains unresolved