

Today in History

July 28, 1914

▲ Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia following Archduke Franz Ferdinand's assassination in Sarajevo a month earlier. Within a week World War I had begun

1794: French Revolutionary leader Robespierre went to the guillotine

1977: The first oil through the TransAlaska Pipeline System reached Valdez in Alaska

1999: Nearly 100 countries, plus international organizations and agencies, pledged a total of $2.1 billion to help in the reconstruction of Kosovo

2010: Spain's autonomous community of Catalonia banned the centuries-old sport of bullfighting