

Today in History

March 14, 1930

▲ Swedish-born film star Greta Garbo starred in her first talking movie, Anna Christie. She retired from films in 1941, living the rest of her life as a virtual recluse

1820: Victor Emmanuel II, the first King to reign over a united Italy, was born

1985: Singapore Zoo put five lionesses on the contraceptive pill after a swift rise in the population

2005: China's legislature passed a law authorising the use of force against Taiwan if the island declared formal independence

2010: Seven-time Formula 1 World Champion Michael Schumacher returned to the sport at age 41