

Today in History

May 29, 2014

▲ Abdel Fattah el-Sisi became Egypt's new president. The influential former general led the ousting of President Mohamed Morsi in 2013

1900: Otis registered its Escalator trademark, combining “elevator” with the Latin word “scala”, meaning stairs

1985: A collapsed wall killed 39 Italian football fans as Liverpool and Juventus supporters rioted at the European Cup Final in Brussels

1990: Boris Yeltsin was elected President of the Russian Federation

2014: International medical teams headed for Sierra Leone to try to stop the spread of the ebola virus