

U.S. civil strife over confederate symbols

The Confederate battle flag has long been the subject of contentious debate, considered by opponents as an emblem of racism and slavery but by supporters as a symbol of their heritage and history

Rejected in 1861 as official emblem of Confederacy but adopted as battle flag by Army of Northern Virginia under General Robert E. Lee

Stars:
Represent 13 states in Confederacy

Colours:
Red, white and blue represent valour, purity and truth

Shape:
Original flag was square

Flag came to be most prominent symbol of Confederacy after South lost Civil War

“REAL” CONFEDERATE FLAG: Confederate States of America – states that supported slave ownership and wanted to secede from United States – used three different flags during war

Stars and Bars 1861-63.
Extra stars added as more states joined confederacy

Stainless Banner 1863-65. Incorporated battle flag as canton on white field

Blood-Stained Banner 1865. Red bar added to avoid confusion with flag of truce

STATE FLAGS: Various aspects of Confederate flags incorporated

Georgia

Mississippi

LICENCE PLATES: Several states offer specialty plates with Confederate insignia

