

Today in History

January 24, 1922

▲ Eskimo Pie, a vanilla ice cream bar covered with chocolate, was patented in the U.S. by Danish immigrant Christian K. Nelson, a teacher and candy store owner

41: The Roman emperor Caligula, famous for his depravity and cruelty, was assassinated by his own guards

1946: The UN established the Atomic Energy Commission

1972: A Japanese soldier who had spent 28 years in hiding thinking World War II was still in progress was found in the jungle on Guam

2015: The radical anti-austerity Syriza party swept to victory in Greece's general election