

Today in History

March 25, 1995

▲ The Schengen Treaty, to abolish border checks between European Union states, came into force. The zone now covers 26 countries and more than 400 million people

1306: Robert de Bruce was crowned Robert I the Bruce of Scotland

1958: U.S. boxer Sugar Ray Robinson won the world middleweight title for an unprecedented fifth time

1996: France, Britain and the United States signed the South Pacific Nuclear Free Zone Treaty

2015: Saudi Arabia launched air strikes in Yemen against Iranian-backed Houthi militants