

Today in History

June 1, 1926

▲ Movie star Marilyn Monroe, the “blonde bombshell” of the 1950s whose films grossed over $200 million, was born. She remains an icon of popular culture to this day

1966: Bob Dylan had purist fans booing in London when he used an electric guitar for the first time in Britain

1973: Greece’s military government abolished the monarchy and proclaimed a republic

1996: Ukraine transferred the last of its nuclear warheads to Russia

2001: Crown Prince Dipendra of Nepal shot dead his parents and seven other family members in an argument over his choice of bride