

Today in History

June 4, 1941

▲ Kaiser Wilhelm II, the last German Emperor, died in the Netherlands where he had lived in exile since Germany's defeat in the First World War

1896: Henry Ford took his first car, the quadricycle, for a trial run on the roads of Detroit

1946: General Juan Peron was sworn in as president of Argentina

1989: Lech Walesa's Solidarity party achieved a landslide victory in Poland's parliamentary elections

1991: Albania's communist government, led by Fatos Nano, resigned after a general strike lasting 20 days