

Clinton “secures Democratic nomination”

Hillary Clinton has clinched the Democratic nomination for U.S. president after winning the required number of delegates, an AP tally suggests.

She is the first female nominee for a major U.S. political party

Republican delegate count*

Needed to win nomination

Donald Trump

1,237

1,239

(95 unbound delegates)

Democratic delegate count*

Needed to win nomination

Hillary Clinton

2,383

2,383

(at least 571 superdelegates)

Bernie Sanders

1,569

(48 superdelegates)

*Includes unbound and superdelegates, party members free to support any candidate