

Philly hosts Democratic Convention

In addition to possible terror attacks, security officials in Philadelphia are braced for an influx of tens of thousands of protesters expected to pour into the city during the Democratic National Convention

SECURE ZONE

- Fenced off by newly constructed perimeter more than 1.5 metres high
- Zone limited to people with tickets or credentials
- Items banned include balloons, selfie sticks, backpacks and all weapons

DEMONSTRATION ZONES

Six areas available for permitted protesters in FDR Park. Camping not allowed

