

Today in History

August 31, 2006

▲ Norwegian police announced they had recovered two paintings by Edvard Munch, The Scream and Madonna, which were stolen from an Oslo museum in 2004

161: Roman emperor Lucius Aelius Aurelius Commodus, notorious for his brutality, was born

1314: Norway's capital was moved from Bergen to Oslo

1951: In a famous event in America's UFO history, Carl Hart took four photos of 18-20 white lights flying in a V formation over Lubbock, Texas

2011: ExxonMobil reached a deal with Russian firm OAO Rosneft on projects worth up to $500 billion