

Today in History

September 21, 2002

▲ Nils Bohlin, Swedish design engineer who developed the three-point seat belt when working for Volvo, died. His design has since saved countless lives

19 BC: The Roman poet Virgil died before making final corrections to his epic poem, the Aeneid

1866: English novelist H.G. Wells was born in Bromley, Kent

1998: Florence Griffith-Joyner, flamboyant Olympic sprinter, died

2013: Al-Shabab gunmen attacked a shopping mall in Nairobi, killing 67 people. The militants claimed it was in retaliation for Kenyan military deployment in Somalia