

Today in History

October 1, 1936

▲ General Francisco Franco was proclaimed as Generalissimo of the Nationalist army and Head of State in Spain. He remained in power until his death in 1975

1946: The International War Crimes Tribunal in Nuremburg sentenced 12 Nazi leaders to death

1961: The last passenger steam train ran on the London Underground

1971: Disneyworld, visited by over 52 million people annually, opened in Florida, to complement Disneyworld in Anaheim, California

2001: Japan's NTT DoCoMo launched the world's first 3G mobile phone service