

Today in History

October 9, 1876

▲ Alexander Graham Bell spoke with Thomas Watson by telephone over a 3km wire stretched between Cambridge and Boston. It was the first ever proper wire conversation

1946: The first electric blanket went on sale in the United States

1967: Argentinian-born revolutionary Ernesto “Che” Guevara was captured and killed in Bolivia

2006: South Korean Foreign Minister Ban Ki-moon was chosen to succeed Kofi Annan as the Secretary-General of the United Nations

2006: Internet search engine Google bought the popular video-sharing website YouTube