

Trump's presidential limo to be revealed

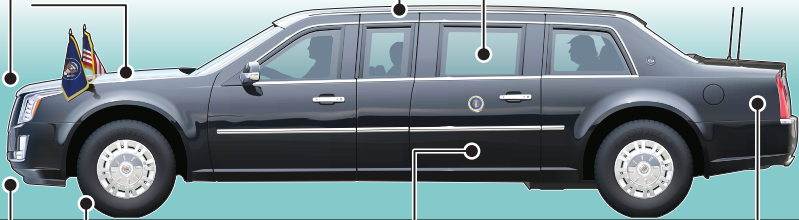

Donald Trump will ride from his inauguration in a brand new version of the current Cadillac-branded state limousine. "The Beast" boasts all current hi-tech security features, along with technology upgrades

■ Front: Expected to feature styling of latest Cadillac Escalade SUV

■ Engine: Current limo believed to have Duramax 6.6-litre, 300-330hp diesel.
Fuel economy: 34 litres/100km

■ Armour: 125mm-thick, capable of withstanding roadside bombs

■ Interior: To retain conference-style seating with 2+3+2 configuration. Sealed to counter bio-chemical attack, oxygen supply in trunk

■ Tyres: Special Kevlar-reinforced Goodyear run-flats

■ Front: Tear gas cannons and night vision camera inside grille

■ Doors: 200mm deep with bullet-proof windows

■ Fuel tank: Armour-plated and filled with special foam to prevent explosion in case of direct hit

■ First aid kit:
Includes two pints of blood matching president's type

■ New limo likely to have adjustable suspension to raise ride. In 2011, low underbelly of Obama's limousine got stuck while departing from U.S. embassy in Dublin

■ Weapons: Car believed to boast rocket-propelled grenades and pump-action shotguns

SPECIFICATIONS

Weight: 6,800-9,000kg

Max. speed: 100km/hr

Call-sign: Cadillac One

■ U.S. Secret Service thought to maintain fleet of 12 similar cars, with each vehicle costing around $1.5 million

■ General Motors was paid total of $15m to develop vehicle