

Search for Berlin Christmas market attacker

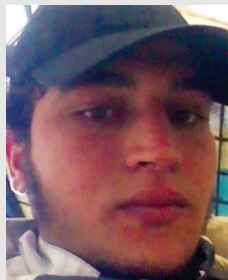

German police are hunting for a Tunisian man over the truck attack on a crowded Berlin Christmas market that killed at least 12 people

■ Overnight: Police raid refugee shelter at Tempelhof airport where suspect is registered

■ Dec 20: Police release suspect, named as Naved B, due to lack of evidence. So-called Islamic State group claims responsibility for attack

■ Dec 21: Hunt said to be underway in state of North Rhine-Westphalia for Tunisian man named Anis A (right), whose asylum papers were found in cab of lorry. Suspect may have been injured in struggle with Urban

■ Dec 19, around 3pm local time Polish lorry driver Lukasz Urban has his vehicle hijacked, possibly near truck depot in Berlin

■ Afternoon: GPS data shows lorry's engine being started three times, as if driver was beginner

■ 7.34pm: Lorry driven towards scene of attack at Breitscheidplatz

■ After 8pm: Lorry smashes into market stalls and shoppers outside Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church. After attack, Urban found dead in lorry, apparently stabbed and shot to death by hijacker

■ 9pm: Pakistani asylum seeker arrested in Tiergarten based on description from witnesses of suspect who fled lorry after attack

Kleve: Town where Anis A's identity documents were reportedly issued

