

Trump versus Everyone

After just three weeks in power and five executive orders, Donald Trump is facing 84 lawsuits* – most are targeting his controversial ban on citizens of seven predominantly Muslim countries from entering the U.S.

Immigration and Nationality Act, 1965: Protects against discrimination because of person's race, sex, nationality, place of birth or residence. Visa ban violates act

Administrative Procedures Act, 1946: Gives federal agencies their rule-making authority. Order requires at least two regulations be repealed for each new one implemented. Two-for-one executive order violates act

Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 1993: Religious freedom is protected. Immigration ban associates Islam with violence and terrorism

Others: Includes lawsuit under Constitution's Emoluments Clause which bans payments from foreign powers. Trump is linked to over 500 entities with businesses in at least 25 countries outside U.S.

Bill of Rights, 1791: Protects freedom of speech, assembly, religion and freedom of the press. Protesters harassed at airports across U.S. following immigration ban
