

Today in History

March 15, 1937

▲ The first central blood bank, to preserve blood for transfusion by refrigeration, was set up at Cook County Hospital in Chicago by Hungarian doctor Bernard Fantus

1964: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton were married after meeting during filming of the movie Cleopatra

2007: Scientists discovered that if the polar ice cap on Mars melted water would cover the entire planet

2016: Htin Kyaw was elected president of Myanmar, ushering Aung San Suu Kyi's opposition party into government

2016: Google's AlphaGo beat a human opponent in the Google DeepMind Challenge Match