

Today in History

July 8, 2007

▲ Boeing unveiled its new 787 Dreamliner, touted as the world's most environmentally friendly airliner. It claimed to use 20% less fuel than other planes of its size

1907: The Ziegfeld Follies opened in New York

2003: Iranian conjoined twins Ladan and Laleh Bijani died during a 53-hour operation to separate them

2009: President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono won a landslide victory in Indonesia's presidential election

2013: Egypt's political crisis escalated as troops fired on protesters, killing over 50 supporters of the ousted President Morsi