

Snapshot of German public opinion

Germans view U.S. President Donald Trump as a more significant foreign policy challenge than leaders in Turkey, North Korea or Russia, according to a survey by the Körber Foundation

What are greatest challenges facing German foreign policy?

Refugees

26%

Relations with U.S. / Trump

19%

...with Turkey / Erdogan

17%

...North Korea

10%

...Russia / Putin

8%

...Syria

6%

...EU / cohesion

5%

Should Germany cooperate more or less with these countries?

Cooperate less

Cooperate more

France

3%

90%

Russia

16%

78%

China

22%

69%

UK

30%

61%

U.S.

34%

56%

88%

EU defence partnership should have priority over partnership with U.S.

74%

Germany should advocate breaking off EU accession talks with Turkey

63%

Consider France is Germany's most or second most important partner

59%

Believe EU is not on right track – just 36% say EU is on right track

Poll of 1,005 Germans of voting age, carried out in October

Source: Körber Foundation

Pictures: Associated Press

© GRAPHIC NEWS