

Democrats seek candidate with charisma

Democrats desperate to beat Donald Trump in 2020 are turning to celebrity power, with names touted including Oprah Winfrey, George Clooney and Elizabeth Warren, heroine of the liberal community

Oprah Winfrey

Talk show host electrified Golden Globes with call for justice for women in wake of Hollywood sexual harassment scandals

AGE AT 2020 ELECTION: 66

George Clooney

Outspoken actor has dismissed notions that he has political aspirations, but says Democrats need charismatic candidate to "light up the room"

59

71

Elizabeth Warren

Massachusetts senator and law professor has $12.8 million campaign war chest. Anti-corporate agenda has made her liberal-populist icon

Mark Zuckerberg

Has hired two former top advisers to Barack Obama and is visiting all 50 U.S. states, raising speculation Facebook CEO may run for office

36

79

Bernie Sanders: Vermont senator won more than 13 million votes with his anti-establishment rhetoric in 2016. He is now developing vision on U.S. foreign policy

Cory Booker: New Jersey senator backs criminal justice reform. His Marijuana Justice Act attempts to legalise marijuana throughout United States

51

51

Kirsten Gillibrand: New York senator, seen as friend of Wall Street, has recast herself as tough-talking liberal, making fight against sexual misconduct her signature issue

Amy Klobuchar: Minnesota senator co-sponsored bipartisan Honest Ads Act to force internet giants to do more to combat Russian election meddling

60

56

Kamala Harris: California Senator has support of African-American political elite which previously helped Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton win party's nomination

Joe Biden: Former vice president pulled out of 2016 campaign following his son's death. Appeals to same working-class white voters who flocked to Donald Trump in 2016

78