

Syria's chemical weapons activity

The suspected chemical attack in Douma – the last rebel-held town in Syria's Eastern Ghouta – is the latest in a string of similar deadly assaults since an attack in August 2013 that killed more than 1,400 people

