

Today in History

November 8, 1793

▲ The revolutionary government in France formally opened the royal art collection in the Louvre to the public. The Louvre is now the world's largest art museum

1968: The Vienna Convention on Road Traffic introduced an international standard for road signs

2008: An accident on board the nuclear-powered Russian submarine K-152 Nerpa killed 20 people

2013: Italy's former Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi was expelled from parliament over tax fraud

2016: Businessman Donald Trump won a shock election victory to become President of the United States