

Russia to deploy new missiles in Crimea

Russia is planning to deploy more S-400 surface-to-air missiles to the occupied Crimean peninsula. The move comes amid rising tensions over Moscow's seizure of three Ukrainian ships and their crews

 Annexed by Russia in 2014

Held by Russian-backed separatists

Areas under martial law

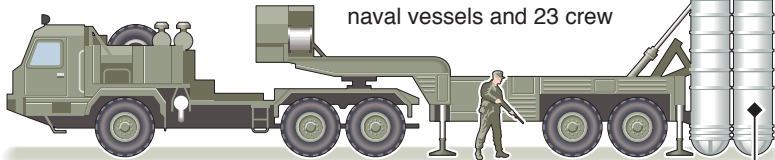

★ Current S-400 bases in Crimea

Sevastopol: Headquarters of Russian Black Sea Fleet

Nov 25, Kerch Strait

Russia seizes three Ukrainian naval vessels and 23 crew

Russian S-400 Triumf air defence missile system

Missile canisters

Sources: Associated Press, BBC, Interfax

© GRAPHIC NEWS