

London moves to curb air pollution

In a radical attempt to tackle toxic air pollution, London's new Ultra Low Emission Zone (ULEZ) will force some motorists to pay a total of £24 ($30) a day to enter the city centre

► Enforcement: From Apr 8 2019, ULEZ will cover existing Congestion Charge Zone (CCZ), but will operate 24 hours a day, every day. From Oct 25, 2021, it will expand to become world's largest emission charging zone

► Cost: £12.50 per day to enter ULEZ if vehicle is not compliant – plus £11.50 congestion charge, applicable Monday-Friday, 7am-6pm

► Fine of £160 ($208) for failure to pay

London mayor
Sadiq Khan

Oct 2021: ULEZ zone expanded

Apr 2019: ULEZ zone covers CCZ

NON-COMPLIANT VEHICLES

► Motorbikes that do not meet European emissions standards Euro 3 (pre-2007 vehicles)

► Petrol cars and vans that do not meet Euro 4 standards (pre-2006)

► Diesel cars and vans that do not meet Euro 6 standards (pre-2015)

► Buses, coaches and lorries will need to meet or exceed Euro VI standard or pay £100 a day