

Vladivostok hosting Kim-Putin summit

North Korean leader Kim Jong-un will travel to Russia's Far East for his first ever summit with President Vladimir Putin

Apr 25: Visit is part of Kim's efforts to build foreign support for North Korea's economic development. Breakdown of second U.S.-North Korea summit in February meant no relief from sanctions for his impoverished socialist state

Summit agenda to include Russia-North Korea relations, denuclearisation, and regional cooperation

Building S sports complex at Vladivostok Far Eastern Federal University (FEFU), is likely location of summit. Used previously for high profile events, it can be easily secured
