

Today in History

June 23, 2016

▲ The UK voted in a referendum to leave the European Union. Prime Minister David Cameron said he would resign as “Brexit” sent shockwaves around the globe

1868: Christopher Latham Sholes, a U.S. newspaper publisher, received a patent for what he called a “TypeWriter”

1992: Mafia godfather John Gotti was sentenced to life in jail in a New York court

1994: France sent troops to Rwanda to provide humanitarian relief following the genocide of 800,000 people in 100 days

1994: South Africa reclaimed its seat at the UN after decades as an international outcast