

Today in History

June 30, 1894

▲ Tower Bridge, an iconic symbol of London, was officially opened. Two sections bearing the roadway are raised to allow tall-masted ships to pass through

1994: The International Earth Rotation Service in Paris advanced atomic clocks by one second

2004: After a seven year journey, Cassini became the first spacecraft to orbit the giant gas planet Saturn

2014: The militant group ISIS changed its name to Islamic State

2018: Two Britons were taken ill, one fatally, after exposure to the same nerve agent used to poison a former Russian spy in Salisbury in March