

IAEA says Iran boosting uranium production

The UN's nuclear watchdog, the IAEA, says Iran is increasing its uranium enrichment activities, following through on a threat to ignore limits on stockpiling materials agreed to in a 2015 deal with world powers

IRAN'S STOCKPILE OF ENRICHED URANIUM

Quarterly IAEA data (kg)

IAEA

Jun 10, 2019: IAEA chief Yukiya Amano (left) says Iran is raising production of low-enriched uranium – type used for nuclear energy. It was not clear whether Iran had exceeded limit set under Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action – 2015 accord aimed at curbing Tehran's nuclear ambitions in return for sanctions relief