

Today in History

September 9, 2004

▲ The Crown Prince of Brunei, Al-Muhtadee Billah Bolkiah, married 17-year-old student Sarah Salleh in an opulent ceremony in Bandar Seri Bagwan

1839: British scientist John Herschel, who coined the term photography, took the first photograph on a glass plate

1975: Czech tennis player Martina Navratilova, aged 18, requested political asylum in the United States

2015: Queen Elizabeth II became the longest-serving monarch in British history, after 63 years and 216 days

2016: North Korea conducted its fifth and largest nuclear test to date, bigger than the Hiroshima bomb