

Dorian takes aim at southeastern U.S.

The slow-moving, category five Dorian – the second-strongest Atlantic hurricane on record – pounded the Bahamas and is forecast to move dangerously close to the eastern U.S. seaboard in the next few days

