

Apple Arcade offers gamers something new

Apple's gaming service is a monthly subscription plan offering cross-platform access to over 100 quality video games

Apple Arcade

- Sep 19: Launches alongside iOS 13
- Price: $5 per month (one-month free trial)
- Games: Access to 100+ new games rolling out this autumn. Cross-platform game saves supported. No ads or in-app-purchases
- Internet: Download to play online or off – no streaming
- Users: Up to six family members on single subscription

Video games like Oceanhorn 2 (above) can be played on TV or taken on move with iPhone or iPad. Controllers like those for Playstation 4 and XBox One compatible with Arcade

PS4

XBox One

COMPATIBILITY

Television:
Connected to Apple TV
(tvOS 13)

MacBook:
(macOS Catalina)

iMac/Mac:
(macOS Catalina)

iPad:
(iPadOS)

iPhone:
(iOS 13)

COMPETITION

STADIA

Nov 2019: Launch of Google Stadia game streaming service – requires $129 up front for dedicated controller and Chromecast Ultra TV dongle. Costs $9.99 per month and needs high-speed broadband to stream graphics from servers

*Available September 30, 2019 for iPadOS and tvOS 13, and October 2019 on macOS Catalina
Sources: Apple, The Verge, Engadget, Pocket-lint Pictures: Cornfox & Brothers © GRAPHIC NEWS