

U.S. less dependent on oil imports

President Donald Trump has claimed that the U.S. has become such a big oil producer, it no longer needs crude from the Middle East. Since 2017, U.S. oil production has risen by almost a third

U.S. oil and petroleum production and imports (million barrels/month, b/m)

Jan 2017: President Trump assumes office

Jun 2019, total: 639.62 million b/m

