

Today in History

October 20, 1994

▲ Veteran Hollywood star Burt Lancaster, one of the best film actors of his generation, known for both “tough guy” and more complex roles, died at age 80

1947: An investigation into Communist infiltration of Hollywood began, resulting in a blacklist that prevented some people working for years

1952: Suspected leaders of the Mau Mau Uprising in Kenya were arrested

1973: Sydney Opera House, designed by Danish artist Joern Utzon, was officially opened

2002: Blue Stream, the world’s deepest underwater pipeline, was opened between Russia and Turkey