

Today in History

November 21, 1964

▲ The Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, marking the gateway to New York harbour, was opened. It was at the time the longest single-span bridge in the world

1953: The 1912 discovery in southern England of the prehistoric “Piltdown Man” skull was revealed to be a hoax

1969: The first permanent ARPANET link between computers across the U.S. was established

1994: NATO launched the biggest air strike in its 45-year history against a rebel Serb-held airfield in Croatia

2004: Leading creditor nations agreed to cancel 80 percent of Iraq’s $39 billion debt