

Today in History

April 9, 2005

▲ Britain's Prince Charles married his long-term companion Camilla Parker Bowles, a day later than planned to allow Charles to attend the funeral of Pope John Paul II

1860: Édouard-Léon Scott de Martinville made the oldest known recording of an audible human voice

1970: Paul McCartney sought a High Court writ to wind up the Beatles' business partnership

1990: The Hungarian Democratic Forum swept to power in elections, ending 40 years of communist rule

2010: Russian physicists created a new, super-heavy element, 117, filling a gap in chemistry's periodic table