

Today in History

April 27, 2005

▲ The world's largest passenger plane, the Airbus A380, made its maiden test flight from Toulouse. The giant plane can carry up to 850 people

1830: South American revolutionary leader Simon Bolivar abdicated as president of Greater Colombia

2010: Greece's sovereign credit rating was downgraded to junk status after a €45bn EU-IMF bailout

2015: Anger mounted in the U.S. city of Baltimore after the death of another black man at the hands of police

2018: The leaders of North and South Korea, Kim Jong-un and Moon Jae-in, held a historic summit