

UK's low-skilled workers worst hit by virus

Men in low-skilled jobs have the highest rates of death from coronavirus disease (Covid-19) among working-age people, according to figures from the UK's Office for National Statistics

OCCUPATIONS WITH HIGHEST DEATH RATE LINKED TO COVID-19

Deaths in England and Wales on or before Apr 20

(per 100,000 population, adjusted for age)

Men

Women

Nearly two-thirds of 2,500 fatalities analysed were men, with security guards, taxi drivers, chefs, bus drivers, sales assistants and construction workers among those most at risk