

Today in History

July 23, 1995

▲ Spanish cyclist Miguel Indurain won the Tour de France for the fifth time. He is the only cyclist to record his five Tour victories in successive years

1840: Upper and Lower Canada were united as the new Province of Canada

2010: Venezuela severed diplomatic ties with Colombia after accusations that it was a “haven for guerrillas”

2015: The discovery of Kepler-452b, the first potentially rocky exoplanet found in the habitable zone of a sun-like star, was announced

2019: Boris Johnson became UK prime minister after Theresa May was unable to deliver Brexit