

Today in History

September 19, 1985

▲ An 8.0-magnitude earthquake struck Mexico City, killing over 10,000 people and injuring 30,000. Much of the city was flattened and 250,000 people were left homeless

1955: Argentine President Juan Peron resigned and fled into exile

1959: Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchhev was refused a visit to Disneyland for security reasons

1982: Computer scientist Scott Elliott Fahlman first proposed the use of emoticons :-) and :-(to distinguish jokes from serious posts

1995: A terrorist manifesto by a man identified as the “Unabomber” was published by the Washington Post