

Today in History

November 14, 2010

▲ Sebastian Vettel of Germany, at 23 years and 134 days, became the youngest ever World Champion in Formula 1 racing. He won the title four years in a row

1851: Herman Melville's famous novel, Moby Dick, about an albino sperm whale, was first published

1900: A scientific institute in Vienna announced the existence of three different blood groups

1925: The first exhibition of Surrealist paintings opened in Paris, showing disturbing illogical scenes portrayed with photographic precision

2017: Australians voted to legalise same-sex marriage