

Today in History

November 19, 2006

▲ Nintendo released the Wii, the first video game console with motion control, inspiring new markets in fitness gaming. It went on sale for $249.99

1620: The Pilgrim Fathers, sailing from England to North America aboard the Mayflower, first sighted land

1869: The Hudson's Bay Company ceded its vast territories to the newly established Dominion of Canada

1990: Leaders of NATO and the Warsaw Pact declared the end of the Cold War

2008: Surgeons carried out the first whole organ transplant, using a trachea made from stem cells