

Catalan separatists increase majority

Pro-independence parties in Catalonia increased their majority in regional elections but the Socialists, who support the union with Spain, took the largest individual share of the vote

■ Separatist parties took over 50% for first time, winning 51% – up from 47.5% in 2017

They now hold 74 of 135 seats in parliament – increase of four

■ Far-right Vox party outperformed conservative rivals – PP and Cs – to win first seats in parliament

