

Today in History

May 01, 1931

▲ The Empire State Building was opened in New York. The world's tallest building for nearly 40 years, it was surpassed by the World Trade Center towers in 1970

1786: Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro was first performed in Vienna, Austria

1851: The Great Exhibition, the world's first international exhibition, opened in London

1961: Cuban leader Fidel Castro declared the country a socialist nation and abolished elections, the first Communist one-party state in the West

2020: Canada banned the sale of assault-style firearms in the wake of the Nova Scotia shootings that killed 22